Congress leads Rajasthan zila parishad polls, but BJP turns numbers game on its head

CHENNAI – 26 Nov, 2026 The Congress party on Wednesday managed to elect Zila Pramukhs in 24 of 37 districts, while the BJP managed to double its tally to 10 amid cross-voting in some districts.

As per the results declared on November 20, the Congress had a majority in 23 of 37 Zila Parishads, the BJP in five, and the Rashtriya Loktantrik Party (RLP) in one.

However, the Congress managed to add only one more to its tally. Among the 23 districts where it had a majority, the Congress failed to get its Pramukh elected only in Churu, where former BJP cabinet minister Rajendra Rathore 's daughter-in-law, Kanika Singh, was elected. The move came as a major setback to the Congress party, which was hopeful of putting up a united show in the district and winning the Pramukh polls across the state without a blemish. For the embattled BJP veteran, a former seven-term MLA, the news came as a much-needed respite. During the polls, Rathore had recited an Islamic kalma while campaigning for his son Parakram and Parakram's wife Kanika, both of whom went on to win.
